

Francys Crevier (Algonquin) is a leading policy expert on Indian health as well as the preeminent policy expert on Urban Indian health. As the Executive Director of the National Council of Urban Indian Health, Francys advocates for equity in Indian Country from the United States government. Francys is an Indigenous Law scholar and promotes policies to help Indian Country heal from historical trauma.